Ziggy, Annie, Cindy, and TJ were all saved and adopted through Midwest BREW. They came to us with their very own sad stories:

Ziggy was heartworm positive and was surrendered by his previous owners. He was a day away from being euthanized when Midwest BREW stepped in and saved him.

Annie was covered in ticks and fleas and had a growth on her leg when found as a stray.

Cindy was emaciated and terrified of people. She spent 3 days hiding under the coffee table when she first arrived in our home.

And last but not least, TJ. TJ had been hit by a car and left in the middle of the road with a broken leg, a dislocated hip and a fractured pelvis. The driver never stopped. Cars were simply going around him until a good samaritan came to his help. He was so emaciated that we could easily put our hands around his waist. It took 3 surgeries, months of therapy and tons of loving care to get him back in shape.

But that's all in the past. Fast forward to today and they are very much loved, very much cared for, and totally spoiled beautiful and healthy beagles. They are the light of our lives and we can't imagine having a home without those four sweet, loving, howling bundles of joy.

We can't thank Midwest BREW enough for making it possible for us to adopt our furbabies. But they can rest assured that -as long as we're alive and well- those four sweeties will always have good food, warm beds, medical attention, and all the love of our hearts. And if we leave this world before they do, legal arrangements have been made to ensure they will be loved and cared for after we are gone.
